

"Marketline is an extremely useful resource. very relevant to our students• needs and easy to understand. Our students find it invaluable."

Electronic Services Team - The Library- University of East Anglia

"Our delegates find the industry reports on MarketLine invaluable for their project work and course related studies. They appreciate their scope and global coverage as well as the five forces analysis. They find the SWOT analysis chapter of the company profiles particularly useful. The country reports offer delegates a good starting point when looking at international business environments."

Knowledge Interchange Information Executive - Cranfield School of Management

"MarketLine is the go-to place for Canadian information on all types of industries. It is one of the first databases marketing students use as faculty refer to information found in MarketLine reports. I find it is easy to use and use it often."

Library Technician.

"Marketline Advantage is a constant go-to resource for our business students at the Schulich School of Business. They value the market segmentation data and the Five Forces analyses and SWOT analyses especially which are useful for many assignments and projects at both undergraduate and graduate levels. The strength of coverage of Canadian markets is a definite plus. The recent addition of case studies is an added bonus. and the financial deals data is also valuable."

Sophie Bury- York University- Toronto, Ontario

IESE Library has been using MarketLine for a few years now and it is frequently and broadly used by our MBA students. Above all. they love its market data reports and company SWOT analysis because of their user friendly formats and the up-to-date and accurate information they provide."

IESE University, Spain

"Marketline reports provide current. concise, accessible, authoritative analysis via an attractive and user-friendly interface. They are our #1 source for company and industry reports."

Business Librarian - George Fox University

The new Country Analysis feature is very popular with all the marketing academics & they have been getting students to use the data for their assignments. Also, the Market Oata Analytics database within MarketLine is ideal for real marketing intelligence information & comparisons between countries.

Maria Thompson - Queensland University of Technology

"I was searching for a company report for students and Marketline was definitely the best resource and offered the most current data. The report from Marketline was dated less than a month old. The result from an aggregated database was a 2012 report. I will always go directly to Marketline in future."

John Foley- Information Manager - Melbourne Business School
